Summer Inputs

The summer months are your opportunity to have a direct effect on yield potential for crops. Extreme weather, insect and disease pressure are the enemies, and SoilBiotics has a complete line-up of products that fight for you. These products can help your plants through heat and drought stress, plus they can help make applied insecticides and fungicides more effective against pests.

Take Care of Yourself

May is Mental Health Awareness Month and it's a good time to remember that you have an emotional support network - your family, friends, church members and more. Farmers are by nature the first to offer help and last to ask for it, but just remember that it's OK to not be OK. As you deal with the stresses of planting season, take time to call a friend and just talk for a while. Farmers are also heavy consumers of digital information, but during busy times try to limit media access to just what you need to do the business of farming. You'll probably feel better for it.
